

Dinner with Others
Richmond Beach Congregational Church
March 2nd, 6pm

It seems that humanity is taking sides, building teams, gathering arms and growing apart - that humanity is creating "others" with unprecedented vigor and animosity. In our belief that this effective dehumanization of each "other," whether that otherness is born of race, religion, orientation, gender, politic, age or otherwise, is counter to the very evolution of us as a planetary family, we invite you to join us for Dinner with Others.

Share a story. Shake a hand. Laugh. Eat. Connect.

Let us *re*humanize each other, as brothers and sisters at a global table, for the greater good of all. All guests will be asked to check positionality with the attendant at the door. All convincing and converting, all self-righteousness and self-importance, all aggressiveness and argumentativeness can be picked up upon exit, if-desired. Otherwise, leave them. We'll be happy to dispose of them for you.

Dinner with Others is a no-cost dinner event (vegetarian) during which a series of questions invites a diverse assembly to connect through the sharing of story in a safe and inclusive environment. All are warmly welcomed into this powerful experience! The event is presented by Unity in Lynnwood for us at RBCC and for friends and neighbors. The dinner will be facilitated by Rabbi Ted Falcon and Linda Babin.

Registration – offered on a first-come basis - will open on Monday, January 28th through the Unity in Lynnwood website. (<https://www.unityinlynnwood.org/interfaith-ui1>) Click on the calendar and go to March 2nd and you'll find the registration. We will also be inviting folks from other churches and the neighborhood.

If you have questions or need help registering through the website, please Unity in Lynnwood, (425) 741-7172.
